

Our 2018 Economic Outlook, which we presented to our clients last January/February, and which is available on our website www.fisettefinancial.com, was accurate, with the exception of the fact that we expected the U.S. dollar to weaken; it strengthened significantly. This hurt our exposure to international stocks and bonds, because as the dollar strengthens, other currencies, such as the Euro, Yen, Peso, Rupee, etc. fall.

The problem with making stock market predictions is that you can get the economic outlook correct, but the stock market does not necessarily react accordingly... so went 2018. You would think that with such a great economy as we saw in 2018, we would have seen the stock market rise. Instead, it started out the year great, lost all January's gains in February, recovered to breakeven and moved sideways through June, rose nicely July – September, and then fell sharply October – December. In the long run, however, stocks are valued on earnings and interest rates. Earnings are strong and expected to continue growing in 2019, albeit slower than in 2018. Long-term interest rates are well off their highs, and we expect them to remain subdued.

Raymond James just released its 2019 Equity Market Outlook, which is located at <https://www.raymondjames.com/fisettefinancial/pdfs/rj-2019-equity-market-outlook.pdf>. They assign the following probabilities for the S&P 500 in 2019:

- A 65% probability for a 16.1% gain (base case)
- A 5% probability for a 29.9% gain (bull case)
- A 30% probability for a 5% loss (bear case)

Unless something drastic happens in the next week, 2018 is going to be our worst year since 2008. As we've said over and over, these declines come out of the blue. Our concern is not that we are wrong in our projections; rather, it is that one or more of our clients throws in the towel out of fear, and finds he/she sold at the bottom. We learned a lot of lessons in 2008/2009, the most important of which is not to underestimate the U.S. economy and businesses, and not to panic when it seems darkest. Never forget that after the S&P 500's 37% loss in 2008, it rose 26.46% in 2009 and 13.69% in 2010. Imagine if you had sold out at the bottom in March 2009. One of the benefits of getting older is wisdom; we learn from our experiences and mistakes. Let's all learn from 2008 that it's darkest before dawn, and stay the course.

With the market being down so much, when we rebalanced our portfolios last Friday, we were able to purchase what we believe to be some very impressive dividend yields. We're confident that when we look back later next year, we'll see our reallocation last week was fortuitous.

We appreciate your trust. Please don't hesitate to call us with any questions or concerns. Merry Christmas and Happy New Year.

Michael & Erica

Michael J. Fisetto, CFP®, MSF
President, Fisetto Financial Services LLC
Raymond James Financial Services
P 425.507.9005 // F 425.369.4981
michael.fisetto@raymondjames.com

Erica S. Fisetto, CFP®
EVP, Fisetto Financial Services LLC
Raymond James Financial Services
P 425.507.9006 // F 425.369.4981
erica.fisetto@raymondjames.com

963 NE Discovery Drive
Issaquah, WA 98029
www.fisettefinancial.com

In the event that you no longer wish to receive these commercial emails please reply to this email and in the body of the email request that we remove you from our email list.

Any opinions are those of Michael & Erica Fisetto, and not necessarily those of RJFS or Raymond James. Expressions of opinion are as of this date and are subject to change without notice.

The S&P 500 is an unmanaged index of 500 widely held stocks that is generally considered representative of the U.S. stock market.

Investment Advisory Services offered through Raymond James Financial Services Advisors, Inc. Securities offered through Raymond James Financial Services Inc. Member FINRA/SIPC. Fisetto Financial Services is not a registered broker/dealer, and is independent of Raymond James Financial Services.

Raymond James Financial Services does not accept orders and/or instructions regarding your account by e-mail, voice mail, fax or any alternate method. Transactional details do not supersede normal trade confirmations or statements. E-mail sent through the Internet is not secure or confidential. Raymond James Financial Services reserves the right to monitor all e-mail.

Any information provided in this e-mail has been prepared from sources believed to be reliable, but is not guaranteed by Raymond James Financial Services and is not a complete summary or statement of all available data necessary for making an investment decision. Any information provided is for informational purposes only and does not constitute a recommendation. Raymond James Financial Services and its employees may own options, rights or warrants to purchase any of the securities mentioned in e-mail. This e-mail is intended only for the person or entity to which it is addressed and may contain confidential and/or privileged material. Any review, retransmission, dissemination or other use of, or taking of any action in reliance upon, this information by persons or entities other than the intended recipient is prohibited. If you received this message in error, please contact the sender immediately and delete the material from your computer

